A bride may be robed in yellow and stand with her bridegroom in a yellow bower, and all of that, and even be married by a minister with the yellow jaundice, but no amount of decorations will prevent their greenness cropping out at the first hotel they put up at.

The drug store has been doing a rushing business this week in Christmas novelties—just for the reason they keep the largest and best line of goods from which to select a present for either your sweetheart, wife, friends or anybody else. They still have a large assortment for their New Year's trade.

Johnny denies the assertion that he is in love. That may be, but we happened to see him stare the other day and what we read thereon would indicate some kind of halucination sweet—an empty sugar loafhead was no comparison. And then you can always sometimes tell that actions speak louder than words, those long deep sighs that reach down to a man's shoe soles, mean disturbed peace of mind.

'Squire Beasley has been making splices right and left this week, all sorts and sizes, with the 'squire don't have to wait for the holidays to enjoy a matrimonial boom, he has one every year and it lasts about four hundred days. Now 'Squire, a merry Christmas to you, and many happy receptions and may you marry three fold the couples next year you have the past.

The teachers in the public schools here were all the recipients of handsome presents from their scholars at the close of school Wednesday. The teachers treated all their scholars royally last Wednesday evening. The reason the schools closed on Wednesday for the holidays was because the board granted them an extra day, they making up the other one by teaching on Birthington's washday—we mean Washington's birthday, which is always granted to teachers.

Dr. Bratt has opened a dental room at his place on Second street, opposite Turpin's meat store. It will give him pleasure to serve those who are desirous of his professional skill (if it don't hurt the patient). Entertainment at Christian Church.

At an early hour last night the Christian Church was packed gallery and all, with an expectant crowd which had assembled to witness "Santa Claus' Mistake," given by the Sunday school children. It was finely rendered, the singing being especially fine. Great credit is due Mrs. Lena Nolin for her patience in training the children. After the exercises the Sunday school children were invited to the basement where an enjoyable time was had around the tables loaded with candles, nuts, fruits, etc., for the scholars. About 9 o'clock all went home expressing themselves delighted with the evening's entertainment.

HELD TO BAIL.

Alfred Offee, Alias Alfred Grayson, in Custody for Robbing Tolle's Store at Cabin Creek.

Short Sketch of the Ex-Convict's Eventful Career.

Alfred Grayson has had examining trial before 'Squire Jacob Miller yesterday on the charge of robbing a store on Cabin Creek owned by Mr. Tolle. County Attorney Charles D. Newell conducted the prosecution, and the court appointed L. W. Galbraith to defend for the prisoner. The evidence disclosed that Mr. Tolle's store was broken into by some unknown parties in November, and some goods such as knives, gloves, caps, pants, etc., carried away. It was also in evidence that the prisoner since the robbery had been disposing of articles of merchandise similar to that which Mr. Tolle missed. Some caps, gloves and pants had by the prisoner were produced, having attached to them the same price-mark-tag used by Mr. Tolle. The prisoner explains that he bought the goods at the railroad commissary. The court thought there were reasonable grounds for holding the defendant over to await the action of the next grand jury, and fixed his bail at $600 in default of which he was remanded back to the custody of Jallor Fitzgerald.

Alfred Grayson has quite an interesting history. To a reporter of the BULLETIN he talked very freely of his life and career.

"I was born," said he, "in Rowan County, Kentucky, in 1850. My boyhood was spent in Brown County, Ohio. When the war broke out I was a restless young fellow, and so I ran away from home and joined the Union army in the Seventh Ohio Cavalry. I remained with my company until 1864, when Captain Smith deserted the company at Taysville, Tennessee. I found the life of a soldier a pretty hard one and deserted at the same time my Captain grew tired of the pomp of war. I spent that winter in the barracks at Camp Dennison, Ohio. In the spring I started out on an aimless tour, and the following eight years I saw a great deal of the world. I followed running the river mostly, and led quite a checkered life.

"In 1872 I came to Maysville and engaged myself as a farm hand to Mr. Charles Dimmitt. This was in the spring of the year. That fall I attended the colored fair at Washington and fell in with some tough companions—thieves and gamblers. Some parties robbed Mr. Bob Hunter's store. I was arrested, having in my possession a pair of boots that I got by a trade. This and other circumstances implicated me in the robbery. I was innocent of the crime but was unable to prove it satisfactorily. They had me indicted and tried for the offense, and in March, 1873, I was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary. I was at the 'pen' but a short while when I had a difficulty with a colored convict by the name of Tom Taylor, in five years for horse-stealing. Taylor was a foreman, and I had disobeyed an order of his to wash a bucket. He attempted to punish me with a whip. I resisted and assaulted him with a loom knife and axe. I was indicted and tried for cutting with intent to kill, and got one year for it; besides, they gave me seventy-five or eighty lashes on the bare back, shaved my head and made me carry a ball and chain for eight months, and locked me in my cell every Sunday on bread and water. During the week I was put at hard labor in the hemp department. I thought I had been punished much more severely than my offense warranted and I became stubborn and reckless.

"In 1874 there was a colored prisoner by the name of Birdsony who had some spite against me and would tell lies on me to the guards to get me punished. I warned him to let up, and told him I would cut his head off the next time he lied about me. He did it again, when I attacked him with a knife, stabbing him nineteen times. He got well, and the courts gave me one more year.

"In 1875 I had a desperate quarrel with a prisoner over a game of dice. He was a Mexican by the name of Gunzilliano, and had threatened to take my heart out on account of some enmity. He called me a son of a b—h several times, and assaulted me with a stick when I lunged at him with a pocket knife, inflicting wounds from which he died a few days afterwards. The Mexican on his death-bed confessed he was to blame and requested that I should not be punished. However, I was indicted for murder, but through the efforts of Mr. Ira Julian, of Frankfort, my lawyer, I was acquitted. I served out my six years sentence and was discharged December 23, 1878. I was given a light suit of clothes, a pair of shoes, calico shirt and

HECHINGER & CO.'S AD.:

$5 in money. The weather was bitter cold and I hunted work in vain. My clothes were so thin I could not stand the weather. I walked into an office while the occupants were absent and took a heavy suit of clothes. I did not know who the clothes belonged to. I needed them to keep warm. It turned out that the clothes belonged to Mr. Ira Julian, the lawyer who had befriended me in the courts. It was a mean thing to take from my own lawyer, but I did not know it at the time. For this offense I was tried in March, 1879, on the charge of grand larceny, and on account of my previous convictions they made an example of me and gave me the limit—a life sentence. I don't know why it is I always play in such hard luck. I understand the law under which I was tried has been in the books for more than twenty years, and yet my conviction was the first under that statute. At the same time of court several others were tried who had previously been convicted as many times as I had, and yet they were only given a few years. When I went back to the "pen" the fourth time I was put in the hemp department. This is the hardest work there. Joe Bode, of Maysville, was one of the foremen. I was under Bode and we never got along well together. I always thought Bode was too hard on me. My work was more than I could do. I have known prisoners in the hemp department to cut off their fingers and sometimes a hand to keep from doing the work required, it was so laborious. You had to do a certain amount of work assigned you or be punished. In November, 1891, Bode and I had a quarrel. For this and other causes, I was locked up in an iron cage and put in chains. When I was not in the cage I was chained to the floor. I was forced to dress seventy-five pounds of hemp a day when two hundred pounds was the usual work a day for three men. During the year 1881 I got the reputation of being a bad prisoner, and was so known and pointed out to legislators and visitors.

"In 1882 when Colonel Stone resigned as Warden, I was released from my cage and chains and made a good record from then on. I think all my conduct and trouble was not so much from fault on my part as it was from the general faulty management and dogged supervision over me, and the habit of appointing convicts themselves as foremen. I have no malice against the prison officers, but there are evils there that ought to be corrected.

"Through the efforts of General Fayette Hewitt and other State officials I was pardoned by Governor Buckner October 9, 1887."

THE NEEDS OF IRELAND.

ARCHBISHOP WALSH SUMMONED TO ROME BY THE POPE.

His Holiness Wants to Learn More of the True Irish State of Affairs and the Plan of Campaign—A Good Representative to Call On—Other Foreign Notes.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The news that Archbishop Walsh has been summoned to Rome is not so astonishing as it is sudden. It has been suspected for some time past that this devoted supporter of the National League would have an opportunity at last to explain to his holiness, Pope Leo, not only his position towards the government now ruling in Ireland, but also the true inwardness of the Nationalists cause and the notorious plan of campaign. There is no one better calculated to do this than Archbishop Walsh, for, although the course he has taken, has been that of great moderation, yet he is intimate with the workings of the League.

He understands thoroughly the needs of Ireland, and can present to the pope a true picture of the distress endured in that portion of Great Britain possessions. His attitude toward the government is easily explained; being an Irishman, naturally his sympathies are with his countrymen in their efforts to obtain freedom. He has counselled moderation, abstinence from violence, and calm practical faith in and adherence to the cause of Ireland. True he has bade his people to maintain their support of the League, but this was done in the belief that this organization worked good in Ireland. Dr. Walsh's efforts to have the landlords meet in various conferences will be remembered, and it is universally agreed that he will be a good representative of Ireland's needs to the pope if he is allowed to explain and plead for her.

It is reported that the pope is not wholly satisfied with Mgr. Persico's report of his observations in Ireland, and is determined to know more. He would be glad of an opportunity to mediate between that country and England, and if possible he will make one. If diplomatic relations can be established between the Vatican and the court of St. James, his holiness will have accomplished what he is secretly longing to do and for which purpose the mission Mgr. Persico was initiated. Irishmen hope that Dr. Walsh's visit to the Eternal city, may be fraught with good to Ireland, and Home Rulers are looking anxiously to see what effect this new feature can have upon the cause to which they are giving their services.

How Sullivan Values His Name.
LONDON, Dec. 24.—The Sportsman publishes a card from John L. Sullivan this morning, in which Sullivan wishes to ascertain if the offer of Richard K. Fox to match Jake Kilrain to fight him (Sullivan) is genuine, and expresses a desire to fight Kilrain. Sullivan makes the proposition that they fight next April on the conditions that Fox bets 10,000 to 7,000 either dollars or pounds. He claims the difference is only a fair remuneration for the use of his name, as he alleges the whole thing is an advertising dodge.

An Address From the Czar.
ROME, Dec. 24.—It is now stated that the czar has decided to send an address to the pope on the occasion of his jubilee, but will present no gift. King Humbert will make no presents to the pope, and has ordered the members of his family to refrain from sending gifts to his holiness.

Made Him Wear the Prison Suit.
LONDON, Dec. 24.—A telegram from Cienfuegos says that Mr. Sheehy, M. P., who was sentenced to one month's imprisonment for inciting resistance to evictions, was knocked down by the jail warders, who then tied his hands and removed his clothes, leaving him in the prison garments.

A Scheme Discovered.
BERLIN, Dec. 24.—The Tagblatt declares that there exists a small but influential clique, which seeks, by representing that his condition is critical, to bring about the resignation of the crown prince in favor of his son.

Will Resign From the Ministry.
VIENNA, Dec. 24.—It is rumored that Count Kalnoky, minister of foreign affairs for Austria-Hungary, is about to resign from the ministry.

Archbishop Walsh Called to Rome.
DUBLIN, Dec. 24.—It is expected that Archbishop Walsh will be called to Rome immediately.

A War Council Called.
SOFIA, Dec. 24.—Prince Ferdinand has summoned all the generals of his staff to attend war councils, to be held in Sofia.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED.

A Cincinnati Watchman Found Unconscious and Shortly Afterward Dies.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 24.—Private watchman John Ager was found insensible on his beat at Vine and Second, Thursday morning by Merchants' Policeman O'Donnell. A patrol wagon was called, and the supposed drunken man was taken to the hospital. Last night Ager died, not having recovered unconsciousness. Dr. Duwelans, of the hospital, gives it as his opinion that Ager was foully dealt with. Said he: "I made a hasty examination of Ager's body this morning and found unmistakable proof that he had been sand-bagged. There was a contusion on his head and blood was flowing from his right ear. His thumb was also out. There are no symptoms that he had frozen to death."

Dr. N. W. Abbott, the family physician, said that Ager had been suffering for about two years with paralysis, and that his death was the result of a paralytic stroke. The deceased had been confined to the house for some time with sickness, but would get up at 11 o'clock p. m. and go down to his beat, so anxious was he to see if his substitute was attending to his duties properly. Dr. Abbott says there are no marks of violence on the body, and that the bleeding at the ears could result from exposure. The deceased is not known to have had any enemies, although there was considerable rivalry between him and Merchant Policeman Shannon, of the same beat, who had secured some of his old patrons. Well known business men spoke in the highest terms of Ager as a steady and excellent watchman. Some of them have known him for thirty-five years. Ager's family consisted of his wife, three daughters, one married, and a son, William, who is a clerk in a Second street establishment. The coroner has as yet held no inquest on the body.

Brown's Little Joke.
"Why, Brown how short your coat is," said Jones one day to his friend Brown, who wittily replied: "Yes; but it will be long enough before I will get another." Some men spend so much for medicine that neither heal nor help them, that new clothes is with them like angels' visits—few and far between. Internal fevers, weakness of the lungs, shortness of the breath and lingering coughs, soon yield to the magic influence of that royal remedy, Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."
